Additional Local Services Needed For New Families

New York — If a considerable number of families in this highlynumber of families in this highly mobile population of ours should that more families are not wanted suddonly decide to take up residence in Grayling, how well precommunity from the standpoint of community from the standpoint of pared would the community be to take care of them?

What would the new arrivals require in the way of additional school facilities, teachers, water supply, police protection and the many other services that go with modern living?

The nature and extent of the problems created by a rapid rise in population are brought out in a report in the Municipal Year Book, bused on a study of a par-Book, based on a study of a par-ticular urban county, conducted by the University of Wisconsin.

It shows that the arrival of 100 new families in a community brings on the need of 3.85 more classrooms, of 4 additional teach-ers, 8/10th of a policeman, 2/3rds of a fireman and 4 other public employees for such operations as street cleaning, tax collection, park maintenance and the various health and welfare activities.

A calculation shows what would be needed, according to the fig-ures in the report, to provide for an increase of 10 percent in the number of local families, which totaled 604 at the time of the recent census.

The extra 60 families would require 2 additional classrooms (grade school and high school), 0.9 policemen and firemen, 2 teachers, 6,040 gallons of water a day, 0.6

Com-Com Committee Propusal for House Membershup UPPER PERILSULA.

DISTRIBUTION OF HIS LEGISLATORS The proposed House apportionment plan drawn up by Con-Con's committee on legislative organization is simply illustrated shows. The proposal appears to have substantial support among delegates from the majority party at the convention. Based primarily on population it gives 62 of the proposed 110 House seeks to the live largest counties.—Kent, Genesee, Oakland. Wayne and Marouch. The upper peninsula is awarded five, instead of the four seeks to which it is entitled by proposed. titled by population. The 22 months in the northern lower permana are given eight, instead of the seven seats which their population dictates. The remainder of the outstate area in the southern lower peninsula would have 35 Seals. The problem of setting up the 116 single representative districts would be left to a bi-peninsul commission which would be named by the state's major political parties. Apportionment of the mate senate, proposed by the committee, would immediately give four additional senates to the metrophism area one each to Weyne, Cakland, Macomb and Geneses. Outstate senate districts would continue at presently constituted until 1970 when a re-apportionment would be authorized based on a formula which gives 80 per cent weight to population and 20 per cent weight to area.

"Cry Out in Silence" is a positive and inspirational statement about rehabilitation after laryngectomy, with emphasis on the fact that the loss of the vocal cords does not necessarily mean the irretrievable loss of speech.

The play should be of interest to everyone, especially ACS volunteers on all levels, and, of course, laryngectomees.

Exceptions to this rule make sense when a motorist knows an out-of-town dealer in whom the has complete confidence. Or when he has real reasons to complain of service in his own locality. A small price difference by itself, however, is seldom a wise justification for purchasing a car outside of

If you've never heard a sonic "boom," it may not be long beofre you do. And you won't have to visit an air show or live close to an air base. It may awaken you from your sleep. It may set the dishes jumping in the cupboard. It may happen at any hour of the day or night no matter where you live.

abrupt sound, the sonic "boom" seems a noisy and unnecessary nuisance.

Unlike most nuisances, however, the sonic "boom" is unavoidable, and it is a sound that we may have to live with for quite some time. Simply stated, the sonic "boom" is man-made thunder. There is nothing mysterious about it. Basically, sound is wave lengths at various pressures hitting the ear, and result from any surge of energy. When an airplane exceeds the speed of sound, sound waves are swept back from them at sharp angles until they form a cone shaped funnel. Here is the making of a sonic "boom". Anyone in the path of the cone's high pressure air will hear the sound as the cone passes over him. This sound is a sharp crack, which sounds like a thunderclap. This, essentially, is all there is to the sonic "boom".

Why do we have these "booms" in the Crawford County area? This area lies in the path used by aircraft flying at supersonic speeds, in realistic training which crews must have if they are to attain top proficiency for possible
